

土偶のカオはどんなカオ？

A terracotta bull figurine, likely from the Indus Valley Civilization. The bull is depicted in a standing posture, facing left. Its snout and horns are decorated with a series of small, circular perforations. The body is relatively smooth but shows signs of wear and cracking. The legs are thick and sturdy, ending in small, rounded hooves. The overall color is a warm, reddish-brown, characteristic of fired clay.
